The Atlanta Constitution says a number of leading Southern Railroads bave just inaugurated a new immigration scheme designed to benefit this section. The idea is to land European immigrants at-New Orleans and distribute them from there over the various lines of travel to to all parts of the South. Just what inlucements will be offered the newcomers remain to be seen, but it is supposed that the proper agencies will be organized to offer employment and cheap lands to actual settlers. It is not likely that many Europeans will care to settle in the vicinity of New Orleans. They will go either to Texas and Arkansas or to the attractive Piedmont region.

Weisman was well off, and had a romantic disposition. Through an advertisement he met and married a Philadelphia girl of respectable parents, and apparently lived happily together. She slept until morning, when she went down stairs and found her husband dead.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., October 24.—A man and a beantiful girl handcuffed together attracted a great deal of attention and no little sympathy from those who saw them. The man was Jack Stock, who had burglarized a house at itentiary for five years for the crime. The girl was his sweetheart, and her love for him caused her to commit a crime. She carried into the jail a mince pie containing a file. With this she was in hopes her lover could escape. The file was found, and Ida Dyer was tried and convicted of carrying it into the jail. She was sent up for one year. RICHMOND, VA., Oct. 27.—A gay wed ding party had assembled at Powhatan Courthouse to witness the nupitals of Miss Nannie Gordon and Mr. Henry Flippen, both of whom moved in the highest social circles. SPARTANBURG, Oct. 27 .- A singular criminal prosecution was begun to day before Trial Justice Carlisle. Last Friday night Marion Stevens, a white lad aged 15, was married to Carrie Boitre, aged 13. They first went to Major A. B. Woodruff, a trial justice, but he refused to tie the knot. They next called on the Rev. Simpson Drummond, who married them. As soon as Berry Boitre, the the father of the girl, found out what was done he brought an indictment against Stevens, and will perhaps include one of his neighbors in the prosecution It is said that these children had no courtship, but were persuaded by a certain man to marry in order that he might get Stevens to work for him. His understanding was that he could not hire a minor unless he was married.

At noon the wind was a gale, accom-panied by snow and rain. The captain of the Foster noticed that the strange schooner was steering badly and was failing-astern. He watched for signals of distress and was prepared to render assistance. A little later, being then about one and one-half miles in the rear, the unknown schooner suddenly sank, and Captain Tufts has no doubt that all on board went down with her. The unknown schooner was laden under deck, carried a man topmast and had a new foresail. She appeared to be of 120 tons and of American build.

A New Yellow Fever Theory.

Dr. J. J. Knott, of Atlants, is just at resent the centre of curiosity for the medical men all over the country. A physician of high standing and ability here at home, he has made a study of yellow fever, its cause and cure, and is now in Washington, where his Lockwood trapsing around in an old discoveries have been brought to the attention of Surgeon General Hamilton, and yesterday private telegrams and the Associated Press brought the news to Atlanta that his theor, would be given a

Dr. Knott left Atlanta for Washington ranks second in territorial extent and the Thursday last, and before leaving confided to a few of his friends the result of his experiments in a search for the cause and cure of yellow fever.

In conversation with one of his friends on the day of his departure for Washing-ton, Dr. Knott said: "Wherever yellow fever is epidemic I have always noticed that there was a blue mist in the foggy air which arises from the earth after nightfall. It is then that the real and greatest danger of infection is to be found. This bluish tint which I speak of is caused, in my opinion, by the presence of a dangerous nount of phosphorus in the air. And this phosphorus is really what develops the germ. It gives it vitality, something to feed upon, and, as the infection is more

The blue mist I speak of is never notice able during the hours of sunshine. Now, if the presence of a large amount of rus in the air really produces the disease and propagates it, I certainly have a remedy. Everybody is familiar with the phosphorescent Jack O'Lantern, which in swampy and marshy countries is so common. I contend that the same causes which produce this wizard of the swamp produces the fever-breeding germ.

"I was in Chattanooga in the epidemic of 1878, and I observed this blue mist, and the air seemed poisonous and sickening. Since that time I have been that I can produce a case of ye low fever anywhere. If I can do this, the remedy is a simple one and I can claim the reward which the General stake my reputation that I can generate a case of yellow fever anywhere by the injection of phosphorus."

Dr. Knott's Atlanta friends will watch the result of the tests of his theory with a great deal of interest. And all over the world, and in fever stricken Florida particularly, there will be glad tidings of great joy in the news of Dr. Knott's sucess.—Atlanta Constitution, October 24.

Farewell to Jute

Bosrow, Oct. 13.—The first result of the attempts by the Jute Trust to corner bagging and squeeze the Southern plan-ters will be felt, and that very seriously, in Salem on Thursday, when the two jute mills of that city will be closed for an in-definite period and more than 500 workmen will be thrown out of employment. The operatives in these works get starva-tion wages at best and enforced idleness at this time in advance of a cold winter is cruel hardship. The annual production of these mills has been about 1,000,000 yards of bagging, which has been used almost exclusively for bagging cotton. The whole country is familiar with the operations of the Jute Trust in enhancing the price of cotton bagging until it was quoted at double the legitimate figures, as well as the efforts of Southern planters to beat the trust and prevent such schemes for the future by finding some cheap sub: stitute for jute. The success that has attended the energetic labors of the plan-ters has practically left the mills without any business and without any demand for their product. The material used was Bengal jute. Early this spring several are deposits of alum, some recently dis cargoes of jute were landed here from Incovered veins of which are eighteen dia, but during the summer upward of inches thick and several hundred feet 7,000 bales have been shipped from Salem | in length, of dazzling whiteness and great to other ports, principally New York and Charleston, S. These shipments caused a marked shortage of material in the mills here for manufacturing, and this is given by the officials as one of the mense, why horizons has stormed reasons why business has stopped can be readily obtained in any desired Another reason, says the superintendent quantity by the simple process of evapo-Another reason, says the superintendent is the uncertainty of business. They absolutely refuse to reply to questions as sulphate of soda are also secured, blown to the effect of the trust's operations, or the use of new material in the South; but there is not the slightest doubt that the jute bagging manufacture in this section is a thing of the past. The manufacturers are wise enough to stop before sinking much money in unsaleable goods.

Keeping Cotton Back, on account of the high price of bagging as arbitrarily fixed by the Bagging Trust, and because cotton is, in their can be laid. The plans already contemjudgment, selling at figures below what it should command, and they argue that by keeping back the cotton for twenty days the price of bagging will decline and The gentleman says that cotton has been and is now kept from going forward for the reasons which combined to bring about the action of the Farmers' Alliance, and that the falling off in the receipts of WHICH is always filled with plenty of all kinds of Goods, delighted customers polite attention, men to wait on them, and sell them their numerous Bargains a prices that are really astonishing. These are cut down so fine that they could not afford to sell them at it if it were not for the large quantity of Goods they handle.

It was predicted that the building of the Savannah Valley Railroad would injure Anderson-that a large share of the Cotton would be marketed at Stations along its line. But all these predictions have proven untrue, because Anderson gets better receipts in Cotton than ever before. And why? Because she contains live, energetic merchants, who pay the farmers more for their Cotton than they can get for it at these small Stations where they have only one buyer, and then they sell you Goods so low, besides-heap cheaper than you can buy them elsewhere. Just listen.
